SPEAKER URGES MORE STATE ROAD MILEAGE FOR ALAMEDA COUNTY

Niles Chamber to Act On Suggestions for Unified Program

Alameda county is not taking advantage of the huge state highway fund obtained through the three cent gasoline tax.

Such was the declaration of George E. Sheldon, of Oakland, to the Niles Chamber of Commerce Monday noon, in urging the civic body to appoint a committee to meet with other civic organizations in this section of the county to outline plans for getting more Alameda county roads in the state highway system.

As a result of Sheldon's address, the Niles Chamber decided to discuss the question at next week's meeting and appoint a committee to work with other bodies in the effort to carry out the speaker's suggestions.

Alameda county which has approximately one tenth of the population of the state and one fourteenth of the autos, ranks about forty-fifth of all the counties in the state in state highway mileage, Sheldon told the civic body. Counties in the vicinity of Los Angeles are receiving large appropriations from the state highway system, while this county is paying a large part of the state road fund through the gasoline tax and geting very little of the money, according to Sheldon.

The reason for this is that the county is presenting no program to the legislature and state highway commission, said Sheldon, in calling for a unified effort from the people of this section to get the amount of road apropriation to which they are entitled.

"It's your money, and it's up to you to get the mileage you want. If you don't ask for it, you won't get it," Sheldon emphatically told the chamber.

The speaker said that under the present three cent gasoline tax, approximately $54,000,000 is realized, which is more than the state can spend economically on roads.

TOWNSHIP SCOUTS SCORE WIN FOR HIGH ATTENDANCE

Southern Alameda County Has Large Representation at Camporee

In an inter-council competition for high attendance at the Oakland Area Council's Camporee held recently in East Shore Park in Oakland, southern Alameda county scouts scored first place with an average attendance of guests of over two per scout, Irving P. Beesley, southern Alameda county field executive has revealed.

With only 486 scouts in the territory, Beesley reported 185 registered visitors including ten from Washington township, ten from Livermore and eastern district, and twenty-four from Hayward district and 139 from the San Leandro district.

"This is the first time in many months that the southern Alameda county division of the Oakland Boy Scouts organization has scored a win over the city boys. I am very pleased with this showing and hope that we will follow this up with other achievements," stated Beesley.

Another Oakland Area Council Camporee will be held in the spring to pick patrols which will represent this area in a regional camperal to be held over the 1933 Labor Day holidays in Golden Gate Park. Thousands of scouts are expected to participate including groups from the northern California line south to Fresno, said Beesley.

Every troop in Washington township will have the same chance to go to this event as other of the 136 troops in the council. No limit to the number of troops which will go has been set, for it has been announced that all scout patrols which meet a minimum camping requirement in the spring camporee will be privileged to attend the 1933 camperal in Golden Gate Park.

MEN'S GROUP NAME NEW OFFICERS AT MEET

Antrim Bunting was chosen as the new president of the Washington township Men's Club, at the gathering held Thursday night of last week in the country club house at Centerville.

Allen G. Norris was elected vice president, while George Roderick and Captain P. C Hansen were re-elected secretary and treasurer, respectively. Bunting replaces Robert Blacow as head of the men's organization.

Approximately seventy-five were present at the meeting to hear an interesting address by Paul Pitman, member of the Washington Union high school faculty. Several numbers by a male quartette from Oakland were acclaimed by the gathering.

TORRID BALL GAME SLATED SUNDAY IN LEGION-LIONS CLASH

Irvington to Be Scene Of Contest for Township Honors

Play Ball!

As this cry resounds across the Irvington grammar school baseball grounds Sunday morning, Jack "Dust 'Em Off" Williamson will uncoil his deadly pitching limb and send one of his famous hook balls zipping wickedly across the plate to spank sharply in the big mitt of Ira Hodgkins.

This will mark the opening of the long heralded clash between the Washington township American Legion tossers and Centerville Lions Club nine for championship baseball honors in this section

Although Williamson, slated to take up the mound burden for the Lions, has not seen action on the diamond for years, several workouts during the past week have assured him that his old "soup bone" still retains much of the speed and deceptiveness that used to send numerous opposition sluggers back to the bench talking to themselves when he was in his heyday. Coupled with the vicious batting barrage with which they intend to rout the opposition the Lions are confident that Williamson's baffling slants will send the Legionnaires home on the short end of the final count.

Prepared to relieve Williamson should the soldier boys respond to his offerings with too much enthusiasm will be big Jess Regli, whose reputation for a speed ball that leaves blisters in the back stop's hand is well-known. Ira Hodgkins will probably do the receiving for the Lions, while the remainder of the nine will be selected from a wealth of material.

Starting on the rubber for the legion tossers and a chucker known for the delight he takes in mowing down heavy stickers will be E. D. "Big Train" Bristow, who demonstrated his hurling ability by silencing the heavy guns of the legion "army" nine in a recent clash with the "navy." Accepting his delivery the legion has a capable backstop in George Smith.

"Skip" Edinger at first base is the legion's "Bambino" and is expected to play a large part in the hot reception planned for the Centerville den. Others who will see action for the legion are Bob and Jack Vieux, Wally Ebright, Matt Mathieson, Van Der Naillan, Marston Dassel, Tony Bettencourt, John Alves, Dale Carrithers, and Burr.

Committee Heads Are Named By Auxiliary

At the last meeting of the Washington township American Legion Auxiliary, chairmen of various committees for the coming year were named by Mrs. Lena Be tolotti, president. These are:

Mrs. Rose Vieux, welfare chairman; Florence Norby, rehabilitation; Mrs. J. W. Meyers, publicity and Americanism; Mrs. Nell F. Wiseman, poppy committee chairman.

Plans were also made for a turkey whist party to be held by the auxiliary, Tuesday, December 6, the proceeds of which will go toward welfare work in the township.

Taxes to Be Collected At Centerville Oct. 27

Announcement has been made to all Washington township taxpayers that Edward T. Planner, Alameda county collector, will be at the Bank of America in Centerville, October 27 to collect taxes.

TWO MEN NABBED IN IRVINGTON LIQUOR RAID

Pair Fined $150 Each At Niles On Possession Counts

Federal prohibition agents led by J. J. Bike swooped down on Irvington late Monday afternoon and arrested two asserted bootleggers for possession of liquor.

These were Fred Froelich, who has charge of an establishment near the Southern Pacific railroad tracks in Irvington, known as "Fred's Place," and Manuel S. Raymond, proprietor of a hotel also located next to the railroad tracks.

Froelich was seized on whiskey possession charges, while twenty-five pints of beer were confiscated on Raymond's premises.

Both men plead guilty before Judge J. A. Silva in the Niles justice court and were each fined $150. They paid their fines.

DECOTO CAPTURES BALL CONTEST FROM NILES

A home run in the last inning with bases loaded gave the Decoto grammar school baseball team a 7 to 2 victory over the Niles grammar nine Wednesday afternoon of last week. It was the first defeat of the season for the Niles boys.

The contest played on the Niles school grounds, was deadlocked at 2 all until the fifth frame when two walks and a hit populated the sacks with Decoto boys, and the Decoto pitcher stepped to the plate to slam out a circuit clout.

Rebello, Niles heavy sticker, was unable to connect with the ball in Wednesday's contest, and was retired twice via the strike-out route.

PLOT TO EXTORT CASH FROM DR. ENOS FAILS

Two men were captured by Alameda county officers late Thursday afternoon of last week after an alleged attempt to extort $5000 under threat of death from Dr. M. M. Enos, Oakland physician. Dr. Enos was defendant in a case in Oakland courts a year ago, involving alleged offenses against young girls, said to have taken place at the doctor's summer home near Warm Springs. After several trials, the physician was acquitted of the charge.

The two men arrested were Charles Pendola, 28, and John W. McCann, 52, both of Oakland. According to Frank G. Swain, chief criminal deputy, both confessed to sending a letter from Hayward threatening Dr. Enos with "exposure" if he did not pay the $5000. The first letter was received September 25, and a second letter was received Sunday, October 2, telling Dr. Enos that he would be "filled with lead" if the money was not paid by 5 p. m. Thursday. A location on Foothill boulevad was designated as the place to leave the money, and county fficers waited at the spot all day Thursday for the men to appear.

The two men finally drove up in an automobile, but started to flee when the jar in which the money was supposed to have been left was found empty. The officers fired several shots, puncturing the gasoline tank and rear tires of the car after which they gave chase in their own car. The two men stopped after a half mile chase and were taken into custody. Both were armed. They said they were out of work and needed money.

Asserted Bogus Stock Salesmen Face Niles Court

Two Wives Admitted By Jewell; Portland Actions Bared

Charged with violation of the Corporate Securities Act, Howard J. Jewell, alias J. D. Reeve alias J. Ashton Lynn, and Gordon McCutcheon, asserted stock swindlers, were arraigned before Judge J. A. Silva in the Niles justice court Friday afternoon. Date for preliminary hearing in the same court was set for Thursday afternoon, October 20.

Since the arrest of the two men in Centerville by county officials two weeks ago, after they are said to have sold alleged worthless oil and gas securities on 'Berthelot Dome" in Montana to four Centerville people in amounts involving several thousands of dollars, the district attorney's office has received considerable information shedding light on Jewell's former career.

In addition to being charged with having a wife, Mrs. J. D. Reeve and six children in Los Angeles, Jewell is said to have confessed to marrying Mrs. Cora Jewell, of Canby, Oregon, in 1930, without the formality of divorcing Mrs. Reeve whom he is asserted to have married in Canada in 1914.

Deputy District Attorney George Perkins received this information from the Portland chief of police. It is said Jewell can be prosecuted for bigamy in either Oregon or Washington, the latter state where his second marriage took place.

Portland police, according to Perkins, have a charge against Jewell for alleged sale of worthless securities to Mrs. Margaret Lang, 78, and another Portland woman. The former is claimed to have lost $8000, while the latter "invested" $2800.

In marrying Mrs. Jewell two years ago, Jewell said that he felt free to do so because he had consulted an attorney friend, whose name, however he did not mention, who informed him that since he had married under a fictitious name, the ceremony was illegal and Jewell was free to marry again.

His name, Jewell said, had been changed in the belief that Northwest Mounted Police in Canada were seeking him, because he had failed to pay a taxi bill of $8 after a long trip in Canada.

Jewell who spoke in the Presbyterian church at Centerville several weeks ago at the invitation of Reverend James McElhinney, one of his asserted victims, also is said to have told Perkins that speaking in the pulpit was no new experience for him. He said he was ordained a minister

EDITORIAL COMMENT

By NORMAN H. PARKS, Publisher Register

A Modern Goliath

THE DEPRESSION has been conquered! This grim and hideous brute lies at the feet of Herbert Hoover, the modern Goliath who slew the monster with his little sling shot and demonstrates that he is not only the greatest stationery engineer that ever walked the earth, but also that when he loads his catapult with an efficiency stone—good night, the battle is won.

We gather this good news in the Oakland Tribune and other "regular" republican papers in this part of California. We feel mighty fine, in the abstract, about this happy turn of events. The depression has been "getting our goat," and we are glad to know that it is all over. We don't know just what day the president laid low the monster that has troubled the country for a long time, but we are looking anxiously for the reaction. So far no page ads have reached us from the big boys in the oil business and the automobile industry, but we suppose they will be right along. As far as we can see, the number of men riding the freights and tramping along the highways have not diminished, but of course we are not questioning the demise of bad boy depression—oh, no, not at all. If the Trib says Hoover slew the business bandit, it is not for this little paper to question the passing of the Octopus.

But that is not all—the election is won for Hoover.

Yes, it's all over—all over in America. Just a matter of formality, you know. The election, you see, will have to be held just the same, but what a useless waste of funds. The whole disagreeable matter was settled out at Des Moines the other day. The president sat around a long time in silence watching the amusing antics of Roosevelt and other democrats but at last the "yipping" of the pygmies at his heels sort of got him "riled," and he said, says he to himself, "I'll have to settle these whippersnappers once and for all—not that I fear 'em, but they are presumptious and annoy the country with their ravings." So up he jumps from the head of the cabinet table, orders a special train, calls for his weapons, and snatching up a ream of paper and with his trusty blade, he sallies forth to the corn belt. Hooked up to the air god, the great food adminisrator said his say, confounded his enemies and went back to Washington. That was all.

And the Tribune says that's that. And, of course, it is. Who, indeed, could be so bold as doubt it!

The Debacle At Hand

THE RUMPUS at Sacramento is but a prelude to the denouement of a political drama that will strip the governor of any considerable following in California, outside the city of San Francisco.

The writer does not know the merits of the controversy that ended in a request for the resignation of Col. Walter E. Garrison, director of the State Department of Public Works, and his chief deputy, James I. Herz, by the governor. All we know is that the people generally are about as disgusted with Rolph as it is possible for an intelligent and proud people to be. His maladministration is bad enough, and the money he wastes is sufficient provocation to make one hot under the collar. But all this we could stand. Filched of a few hundred thousand for Persian rugs, goldlined bathtubs and other accessories necessary to the peace and happiness of such a man as Rolph, the state could still stagger on. Not content just to wound the pocket-book, the governor has wounded the pride of every sensible man and woman in the state.

The people of the United States are laughing at the governor of California. In his old age going daffy over young girls, the people never see his picture in print in a dignified manner—it is always in company with some pretty skirt. He jumps around the state attending every carnival from Hornbrook to San Ysidro. He imagines his obligations to the country are limited to impeccable attire, a gardenia in the lapel of his coat, and a movie star on his arm.

Well, the end is at hand. The debacle is in the offing. His appointees are rushing for cover, ashamed longer to be a part of such a ridiculous political fiasco.

Private Vs. Public Business

ON OUR HIGH school board we have several men, we believe, who hire help on their ranches. We wonder if these men would permit their employees to go over to the adjoining farm and hire out for night work, to make a little extra money. Why not? Because that's different—very different. That's private business, not public business, and the head of such an institution is very much concerned about his profits and the efficiency of his laborers.

If the rancher permitted his help to hire out to a neighbor for night work, his hired man the next day would fall down on the job. In fact he might take a nap in the field when the boss wasn't lookin'. That would be natural. God never meant man to hold two jobs—one in the day time and the other at night Either the day or the night job would suffer.

Come, gentlemen, run the school business like you run your own business, and the Register will have no quarrel with the affairs at Centerville. Unless you get down to brass tacks and clean up this situation, this writer will pound away at the evils as they come to light, if he must continue the campaign all winter.

MOVEMENT TO AIR ALLEGED GRAFT IN SCHOOLS GROWS

Piedmont High School To Be Probed; Clean-up Begins in Bay City

Another example of alleged graft among school systems in the state was hinted last week when the Alameda county grand jury was ordered by District Attorney Earl C. Warern to investigate records of the Piedmont high school in connection with charges that the school was extracting money from county and state, to which it was not entitled.

According to information received by District Attorney Warren, attendance figures were "padded" in order to receive a larger school appropriation. It was claimed that figures submitted by Harry J. Jones, Piedmont school superintendent, were not an accurate record of daily attendance. The principal was charged with submitting figures far in excess of the true daily attendance records.

Since the state and county school funds are alloted according to the enrollment figures received from the principal, it is claimed the Piedmont school has been receiving a larger sum than it is entitled to, thus robbing the county and state.

High schools receive an allotment of $90 per student per year, divided equally between the state and county, on the basis of overage daily attendance.

Several Piedmont residents including Major Winfield Scott Overton, were behind the movement which prompted the district attorney to order the investigation. Warren promised speedy action and criminal prosecution if the charges prove true.

MOVE TO REORGANIZE SCHOOLS IS TAKEN

Appointment of a "dictator" last week to conduct the business affairs in San Francisco schools was regarded as one of the first steps to completely reorganize the school department as the result of charges that $2,000,000 had been stolen from school funds in the overpayment and "padding" of teachers' salaries during the past few years.

The grand jury is still continuing its investigation of the alleged overpayments and several members of the school board have appeared before them.

John Allyn Ormond, an Oakland auditor, was named by the school board to "install and supervise the revision of the general office and department office operations of the board of education." He will check teachers' pay rating, formerly under the control of Dr. Joseph Marr Gwinn, school superintendent, who was in charge of both business and educational affairs of the school department before the board's action.

MUSICAL RECITAL IS ACCLAIMED BY HUGE CROWD

One of the largest crowds to gather in the Washington Union high school auditorium at Centerville highly enjoyed the fifth annual recital of Olive Campos and his pupils Friday night.

Transplanted in a colorful Hawaiian atmosphere of "On the Beach at Waikiki," the huge crowd which completely filled the auditorium and was packed deeply in the doorways expressed their delight at the talented performances of approximately fifty Washington township boys and girls by applauding each number vigorously.

As was the case last year, the able performance of little Jimmy Callon in "Ted Lewis Himself" drew the plaudits of the gathering. Little four-year-olds Phyllis Day and Lorrain Desarte in dance numbers were especially pleasing.

Other outstanding numbers were the representation of the Happy Go Lucky Hour by Oliver Campos, Natalie Campos, Lucille Alves, and Gordon Pond, the singing of Morris Silva, and "Topsy and Eva by Harriet De Leon and Natalie Campos.

TEN YEAR PABCO ROOF PUT ON BY HAYWARD CONCERN

The very latest in reliable roofing material and put on by able, experienced craftsmen is the attractive roof on the new Botelho building.

A guaranteed ten year roof made up of Pabco shingles covers the beautiful structure. The work was done by the McFarland Roofing Company, well-known Hayward concern. McFarland is an approved Johns-Manville and Pabco Products contractor and has many attractive jobs to his credit.

In addition to the Botelho building, McFarland has supplied and put on the roofs of the city hall in Hayward, the Memorial building in Hayward, and the Memorial buildings of Pleasanton and Decoto, as well as many other fine institutions.

E. E. DIAS AND COMPANY ARE CONTRACTORS

Niles Concern Handles Building Contract In Fine Shape

To E. E. Dias, contractor, of Niles, goes the honor of constructing one of the most attractive buildings at Centerville.

Dias, who is one of the best known contractors in southern Alameda county, has been engaged in the building business in this section for many years and has completed numerous projects that have earned him no little credit.

The mortuary is no exception to his past record, and undoubtedly will be listed among the most creditable of his achievements.

The contractor and his crew performed all the construction work concerned with the building, from excavation for the foundation to the beautiful finishing work. Excavation work began early in June and Dias and his men were busy throughout the summer on the construction of this attractive structure which now completed has won the acclaim of all those inspecting it.

The building is a spacious two-story structure of colonial style and finished in white stucco. There are twelve rooms downstairs, all of which are part of the mortuary itself.

Outstanding among the rooms is the large and beautiful chapel which is able to accomodate 250 people with ease. It has a pleasing home-like atmosphere which tends to dissipate any feeling of gloom one may have before entering. The chapel is furnished in a style that adds considerable to its appearance. Right off the chapel is the organ room with a large organ to furnish music for services.

On the right as one enters the mortuary from the front is the slumber room. Both a ladies' and gentlemen's dressing room also are located in the front part of the building. Toward the back there is another dressing room.

The flower room also draws one's attention. A feature of this room is that large amounts of flowers can be kept there for some time without danger of wilting.

Among the other rooms that stand out are the beautiful casket display room and the family room. The latter is to be used exclusively by members of the deceased's family. It has been built and furnished with the idea of creating a feeling of comfort and ease for those occupying the room.

Upstairs is a six-room flat, which is occupied by Mr. and Mrs. John Lowman and family. Mr. Lowman is assistant to Mr. Botelho.

FOUNTAIN DONATED

The beautiful drinking fountain on one corner of the lawn in front of the new Botelho mortuary was donated through the generosity of Wiliam and Frank Furtado, and Chris Escobar, all of Centerville.

OAKLAND STORE PLANS INTERIOR FURNISHINGS

Chapel of the Palms Is Furnished By Oakland Store

We had heard by word of mouth of the beauty of his new Chapel of the Palms, but we were totally unprepared to find it the restful haven that it really is. Mr. Botelho has realized in this Chapel, his dreams of many years. It was his wish to build into it, all the refinement and charm usually associated with the living room of the home. This has most certainly been accomplished by Mrs. Botelho with the help and advice of the decorating studio of Breuner's, Oakland.

In the furnishing or the Chapel of the Palms, the conventional has been discarded for the homelike. The architecture of the building is colonial and with this in mind the interior decorating department of Breuner's, (who supplied all the furnishings) has striven to build a true Living Room Chauel. Of particular interestis a group consisting of love seat and lamp framed by block linendraperies in a recessed window.

is a group consisting of love seat and lamp fromed by block linen draperies in a recessed window.

Mr. Botelho has expressed in this Chapel in still another way his ever-present desire to lessen the sorrow of thiose whom he serves. We cannot help feeling that this is a house of comfort—that it is an institution to which citizens of Centerville may well point with pride.

HARRY MORTENSEN DOES ALL PLASTER WORK

Attracting the eye as one inspects both the exterior and interior of the new Botelho mortuary is the high quality of the plaster work, performed by Harry L. Mortenson, located at 4060 East Eighteenth Street, Oakland.

All the rooms in the building have been finished in a manner that leaves nothing to be desired in the way of charming appearance, while the stuccoed exterior reflects the work of able craftsmanship. Mortenson has earned a reputation for doing the best of plaster work, which is borne out in the Centerville building.

With the completion of the new and modern mortuary, F. F. Botelho funeral parlors can boast of having an equipment that will rank with any other in the state its size.

In the new building all the equipment is the most modern and up to date possible, while for conveyance purposes the firm has a beautiful new hearse and a fleet of six Lincoln motor cars.

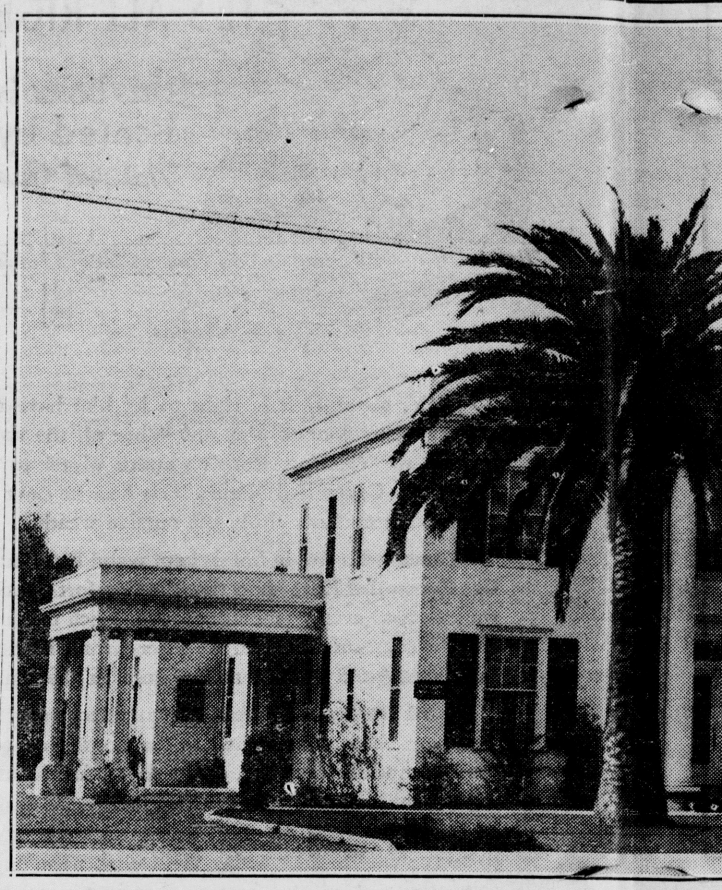
NEW BOTELHO BUILDING TO B



BUILDING PLANS DRAWN BY WELL KNOWN COMPANY

Adding another great triumph to their already large list of noteworthy and successful accomplishments in architectural design, the new Botelho mortuary at Centerville exists today as an outstanding example of the creative ability and masterful technique possessed by the firm of Miller & Warnecke, well-known Oakland architects located in the Financial Center building, who drew the plans for the building.

When F. F. Botelho, owner of this magnificient mortuary that stands out as one of the finest of its kind in this section of the state, decided to have the building constructed, one of his first steps was to settle upon the type of structure wanted—one that suited all his needs and provided the best in modern conveniences and at the same time would possess an aspect of stately beauty and dignity which would convey to the public a message that institutions of this nature should bring.

After consulting authorities on the subject he finally submitted his ideas to Miller & Warnecke, whose past reputation for striving to the utmost to satisfy the wishes of their patrons, influenced Mr. Botelho in putting his plans before them. He was not disappointed in the result of their work, and anyone viewing the new attractive Botelho mortuary with all its quiet and unassuming dignity that makes an indellible impression upon the senses, cannot help but admit that Mr. Botelho's ideas have admirably materalized in the new building.

Miller & Warnecke thus deserve considerable credit for the part they played in visualizing and designing this mortuary which looms as one of the greatest assests Centerville possesses in the way of outstanding edifices.

Miller & Warnecke have long been in business in this section of the state and have many other feats of architectural achievement to their credit. Among these are the beautiful Woman's Club building, in Oakland, and the East Oakland high school and the Castlemont high school building.

A well-known Centerville firm, George A. Coit Plumbing & Hardware Company, performed the efficient job of installing all the up to date plumbing fixtures in the new Botelho mortuary.

Dedication services for the new Chapel of the Palms wil be held Sunday, October 16, at 2:30 p. m.

A brief yet beautiful program has been aranged to fittingly open the building to the public. Musical numbers, the blessing of the building, and a few remarks will be impressive.

The building will be open for inspection all day Sunday and the public is invited to attend the dedication services.

ELECTRICAL WORK IS INSTALLED BY LOCAL COMPANY

Beautiful Electrical Fixtures Will Light Mortuary

Among the beautiful furnishings which adorn the Botelho mortuary are the charming electric fixtures in the various rooms and the lights in front of the building. Credit for installation of all these electrical adornments goes to the Centerville Electric Company, which did the wiring and other electrical work for the new building.

Particularly standing out in the electrical fixtures are the beautiful side lights in the chapel. These give a lighting effect that harmonizes beautifully with the other atmosphere of the rooms.

Botelho expressed himself as more than pleased with the part the Centerville Electric Company played in equipping the new building, and was high in his praise of the efficient service rendered by the firm.

Anthony and Henry Enos who are in charge of the Centerville electricical firm, are well-known in Washington township as able electricians capable of meeting all expectations when it comes to performing electrical work.

HISTORY OF INSTITUTION ONE OF REAL PROGRESS

Institution Was First Established In 1902 In Centerville

Thirty years ago, in 1902, George Botelho founded the present Botelho Funeral Parlors in a residential building in Centerville. For ten years George conducted the business, building it up through many kindnesses to, and careful consideration or his fellow man.

A fine, upstanding man, it was only natural that any business that he established would be conducted on the same high principle for which he stood.

The early history of the institution followed the same course that condition forced the people to live under. George conducted his funerals with horse drawn vehicles. It was a terrific strain, attempting to care for the grieving ones and conducting the funerals with the many handicaps that were the lot of the early days.

George passed to the Great Beyond twenty years ago, leaving his brother, Frank, to conduct the business he had established. For the past twenty years, Frank has carried on, building carefully, and honestly, until, with the opening of the beautiful new mortuary, he has accomplished the vision of his brother, George. Progressive in every respect, and yet conducted on the basis of the Golden Rule, the Botelho Funeral Parlors of today are a fitting tribute to their founder and to the standards for which he stood.

Frank carried on the business in the same establishment in which it was founded for a two year period. It became necessary to move to the building next door for more spacious quarters. Soon after this, Frank obtained his first automobile, and the new quarters he had established were considered the finest south of Oakland. For eighteen years Frank carried on his business from this spot, growing, making more friends and establishing a living tribute to his family.

Business grew, and a few months ago Frank conceived the idea of making over the birthplace of the concern into the most beautiful mortuary in Alameda county, as a tribute to the memory of his brother, George.

How concientiously he has succeeded is best shown by the building. Every modern convenience, every contrivance possible, to ease the sorrowing ones, has been installed. Six mammouth Lincoln sedans replace the horse and buggy of thirty years ago. The cold, forbidding atmosphere of most mortuaries has been completely eliminated, yet the dignity of the institution has in no way been impaired. On the contrary, the very color and stateliness of the establishment add to its propriety, yet do away with the oppresiveness so often surrounding such institutions.

Twenty years ago, Frank was called upon to become a deputy county coroner, a post he has filled capably all these years.

About a year ago, Frank was joined by Mr. Lowman, a funeral director from Alameda, as his work had become far too much for one man to handle. Together they are carrying on, serving the people to the very best of their ability, easing the load which the Grim Reaper always places on a family, and combining their efforts to the utmost for the people of Washington township.

Their history has been one of which they may well be proud, their present is most commendable and their future will undoubtedly be one of continued building, ever striving to serve mankind.

BEAUTIFUL LANDSCAPE WORK BY TURLOCK NURSERY

Sixty Varieties of Flowering Shrubs Are Planted

Featuring an attractive array of color, the landscape gardening planned and completed for the Botelho mortuary by the Turlock Nursery, of Centerville, is a masterpiece in arrangement and dignity.

Some sixty varieties of flowering shrubs have been planted under the watchful eye of Harry Elsey, manager of the nursery, and carry out explicitly the wishes of Mr. Botelho in eliminating the somber and forbidding aspect which characterizes many mortuaries.

At the entrance to the grounds are shrubs of lighter hue, which gradually assume a deeper shade as they near the building itself. The white color of the mortuary forms a beautiful background for this dignified array.

Over the trellis of the former location next door, is a beautiful and rare pink wisteria vine. Creeping junipers add a great deal of colorful effect to the front of the building. On both sides of the front entrance are two cedar trees, the only non-flowering shrubs of the gardening. Their gorgeous green harmonizes beautifully with the building.

One of the most unique and attractive innovations of the mortuary is the outdoor living room in the rear of the building. Surrounded by a massive hedge, the room when completed will be used exclusively by the immediate relatives of the deceased. Seclusion marks its location and under the shade trees will be chairs and tables for the comfort of the users. A bird bath, and beautiful green lawn add much to its attractiveness, while the colorful flowering shrubs work wonders in dispelling any tendency toward gloom.

Mr. Elsey has performed a talented feat in his arrangement and selection of the gardening, and his work is a fitting tribute to the beautiful building that it surrounds.

A. GRONLEY DOES EXPERT PAINTING JOB ON BUILDING

Color Scheme Faithfully Carried Out By Local Man

Antoher Washington township craftsman who played an important part in making the Botelho mortuary such an attractive building is A. Gronley, well-known painter of Centerville. Gronley did all the painting work on both the interior and exterior of the building, and inspection of the mortuary is convincing testimony to the high grade merits of the job.

In securing Gronley to do the painting, M. Botelho was assured of the work being performed in a highly satisfactory manner and also securing a service prompt and efficient. Gronley has been engaged in painting work in the township for many years and his services are always sought after by those desiring superior quality work.

P. C. HANSEN COMPANY FURNISHES BUILDING LUMBER

Local Concern Also Supplies Mill Work For Building

As has been the case in the majority of Washington township building projects, P. C. Hansen Lumber Company, which has plants at Alvarado, Decoto, Irvington, Centerville and Niles, supplied all the lumber for the Botelho mortuary.

Hansen Lumber Company, owned by Capt. P. C. Hansen, who lives at Centerville, is one of the oldest business firms in this township, and is known for its distinction of providing prompt and efficient service.

The Cornhuskers' Class C five drubbed the visitors 32 to 12, last Tuesday, while the Class D hoopers nosed out a 12 to 10 win. In the first victory Fudenna stood out for the Washingtonians, collecting nine points, while Witherly scintillated for the Class D quintet capturing scoring honors with a total of ten points.

In the clashes with San Jose Friday afternoon, the Washington Class C boys were trounced 32 to 15, while the Class D cagers took a 26 to 9 shellacking. Harry Sekigahama starred for the C team garnering ten counters, and Nakagowara shone for the D squad.

The Cornhuskers opened southern Alameda county league competition yesterday afternoon against the School for the Deaf and Dumb.

GOAL KICK GIVES CORNHUSKERS WIN OVER ROOSEVELT

Washington High Eleven To Meet Hayward Friday

By the narrow margin of one point the Washington Union high school football eleven won its first game of the season Thursday afternoon of last week from Roosevelt high school second team of Oakland.

A place kick from the toe of Ed Rose which hit the cross bar of the uprights and bounced over for the extra point gave Coach Regli's gridders a 7 to 6 decision. The Cornhuskers had several other opportunities to cross into scoring territry but seemed to lack the necessary scoring punch.

Twice during the first half, Washington drove down the field to the enemy's one yard line and once to the five yard line, only to lose the ball on downs. The Washingtonians rolled up a far larger total of first downs and yardage than the Oakland boys, and most of the contest was played in rival territory.

Roosevelt scored first when a march of approximately forty yards resulted in a touchdown during the early part of the third period. Try for point failed. The Cornhuskers retaliated, however, during the latter part part of the same quarter after a successful drive from their own territory placed the ball on the Roosevelt twenty-five yard marker, from where Ed Rose, on a reverse, sped across the goal line.

The Washington township boys suffered a severe loss immediately preceding the touchdown play, when Jack Coley, who had been tearing off huge gains through the line and playing a bang up defensive game, sufferd a broken nose. He was replaced at full back by George Geib.

Coley will be out the remainder of the season, and his loss will be keenly felt in the backfield.

Booras played his usual steady game in the Cornhusker line Friday, while Hikeda, who weighs only about 130 pounds, stood out at guard. The two Freshmen tackles, Frank Mederios and Sinclair, also were strong factors in their teams victory. In the backfield, Coley was outstanding, while Rose looked good at skirting the ends.

The Cornhuskers will clash with Hayward high Friday afternoon (tomorrow) at Centerville, in the opening of the southern Alameda county league competition. The Farmers come with a reputation of a stronger eleven than last year, and although Coach Regli is pessimistic regarding the chances for a Washington victory, he promises that his team will be out fighting every minute. Wesley Raso will probably replace Chuck Grimmer at quarter in the Hayward contest, while George Geib will hold down the full back berth.

Starting line-up Friday was Booras, center; Hikeda and Fuller, guards; Mederios and Sinclair, tackles; Rivers and Silva, ends; Coley, full; Grimmer, quarter; Ramos and Rose, halves.

Where Does She Get Her "Pep?"

SHE doesn't look seventy. Nor feel that old. The woman who stimulates her organs can have energy that women half her age will envy!

At middle-age your vital organs begin to slow down. You may not be sick, simply sluggish. But why endure a condition of half-health when there's a stimulant that will stir a stagnant system to new life and energy in a week's time?

This remarkable stimulant is perfectly harmless. It is, in fact, a family doctor's prescription. So, if you're tired of trying every patent medicine that comes along, tell the druggist you want a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin. Take a bit of this delicious syrup every day or so, until you know by the way you feel that your lazy liver is again active, and your bowels are poison-free.

Men, women, and children who are run-down, who tire easily, get bilious spells or have frequent headaches, are soon straightened out when they get this prescriptional preparation of pure pepsin, active senna, and fresh laxative herbs. (Syrup pepsin is all the help the bowels need, and you do not form the very bad habit of always taking cathartics.)

Keep a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin in the house, and take a stimulating spoonful every now and then. It is all that a great many people ever take to keep strong and vigorous, and absolutely free from constipation.

FRUITS PREPARED FOR SALE DURING ANNUAL FESTIVAL

An attractive display of glazed fruits and vegetables will be on sale at the annual harvest festival to be given in the old adobe on the California Nursery grounds at Niles, October 22 and 23 by the Tovon Branch of the Baby Hospital.

This is assured as the result of the work of the organization's members this week in carefully preparing a large amount of the products for sale. By special process, the fruits and vegetables are treated to a coat of shellack that gives them a glowing appeaance and keeps them preserved.

Cider and other refreshments also will be served in the old adobe during the festival. It is planned to have a pony on hand for use by the children coming with their parents.

All money recived from purchase of articles at the affair will go toward the benefit of crippled children in the county, it has been pointed out by Mrs. J. R. Whipple, chairman of the committee in charge, who is hoping for a large attendance during the two days.

after attending a Presbyterian church school in Manitoba, Canada, under the name of J. D. Reeve.

Mrs. Ruth Blair Townsend, Newark school teacher, her two sisters, Miss Florence Blair, and Mrs. Dorah Fuller, with Reverend McElhinney are numbered by authorities as the victims of the two men's asserted fraudulent stock sales operations in Washington township. The three sisters are said to have "invested" a total of $2600, while the pastor allegedly parted with 116 shares of Transamerica stock and $368 in cash.

Both Mrs. Fuller and Mrs. Townsend were in the Niles justice court Friday afternoon when the two men were arraigned. Mrs. Townsend, preceding the hearing, carried on a quiet and earnest conversation with Jewell, encouraging him with assurances that everything would turn out all right. Apparently, in spite of the revelation of plural wives, the Newark school teacher still has abundant faith in her recent acquaintance. She scored the Reverend McElhinney in no uncertain terms for "talking too much."

McCutcheon is at liberty under $500 bond, but Jewell still languishes in the county jail, despite the asserted willingness of Mrs. Townsend to go his bail.

thur H. Breed, and which would provide for 2900 miles of state highways in northern California, was outlined by Sheldon, who stressed the point that it was up to Alameda county to get their share out of that mileage.

Sheldon suggested that Alameda county get 290 miles of state highway in next year's appropriation for state roads by the highway commission. Under the bill proposed by Senator Breed, fifty per cent of the money appropriated will go to primary state roads and fifty per cent to secondary highways, while at present seventy-five per cent goes to primary and only twenty-five per cent to secondary roads. If the bill is passed and Alameda county presents its demands for state highway mileage, the result will be a great relief in next year's taxes, said Sheldon.

The construction of the bay bridge and the Hetch Hetchy water project were mentioned by Sheldon as factors which undoubtedly would result in a great future for this section of the county, and he stressed the need for developing better roads in planning for the future.

At the conclusion of Sheldon's address, Charles Morehead, of Oakland, spoke briefly to the chamber, stressing the need of united action in working for the development of the community.

Sentiment of members of the chamber showed itself as highly in favor of Sheldon's suggestions, and it was moved to hold a general discussion at next week's meeting, and at the same time Sheldon was assured that the Niles chamber was back of the movement to obtain more state mileage for this section and that effort would be made to meet with other civic organizations to map out a program.

Harvey Braun was appointed committee chairman for next week.
